TWO CHILDREN DIE FROM BURNS

Mother May Also Succumb
As Result Of Gasoline
Explosion

Mrs. Charles Powell of Phelps attempted to start a fire with gasoline in the kitchen stove with the result that her two children, Elmer, aged 4, and Verna, 2, are dead and she is in a hospital suffering from burns, which may terminate in her death.

About one pint of gasoline was in the can and the woman was pouring this over a smoldering fire when the explosion occurred. Her two children stood near her. An instant following the explosion the three were enveloped in flames.

One of the children died within a few minutes and the other passed away a short time later. Mrs. Powell is terribly burned and physicians have small hope of saving her life.

It is reported that Mrs. Powell was in a hurry to prepare dinner and used the gasoline for a quick fire, regardless of the danger.

C. H. Roepcke, deputy state oil inspector, made an investigation of the fire Monday and states that it was due to carelessness. He found the family in poor circumstances and in need of financial aid.

WRECK DEPRESSES SPARKS PEOPLE

News of the wreck of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus in Indiana, Saturday, caused much depression among the officials and employees of the Sparks show, which exhibited here that day. Many people with the Sparks organization have friends, and relatives with the Hagenbeck-Wallace show and some of these were undoubtedly among those killed and injured.

Officials of the Sparks circus learned of the wreck by a private telegram Saturday noon but did not impart the news to the employees then, fearing that it might have a tendency to decrease the merit of the matinee performance. Rosa Rosalind, famous bare back rider killed in the accident, was a cousin of one of the lady performers with the Sparks show. When this woman learned of her relative's death she was so overcome with grief that she could not take part in the night exhibition, but was compelled to remain in her berth in the sleeper.

DR. GARNER WILL GO TO GEORGIA

Dr. Harold L. Garner, who was recently commissioned a lieutenant in the medical reserve corps, received a telegram from the war department today ordering him to report for a course of instruction at Camp Oglethorpe, Ga., on or about July 15.

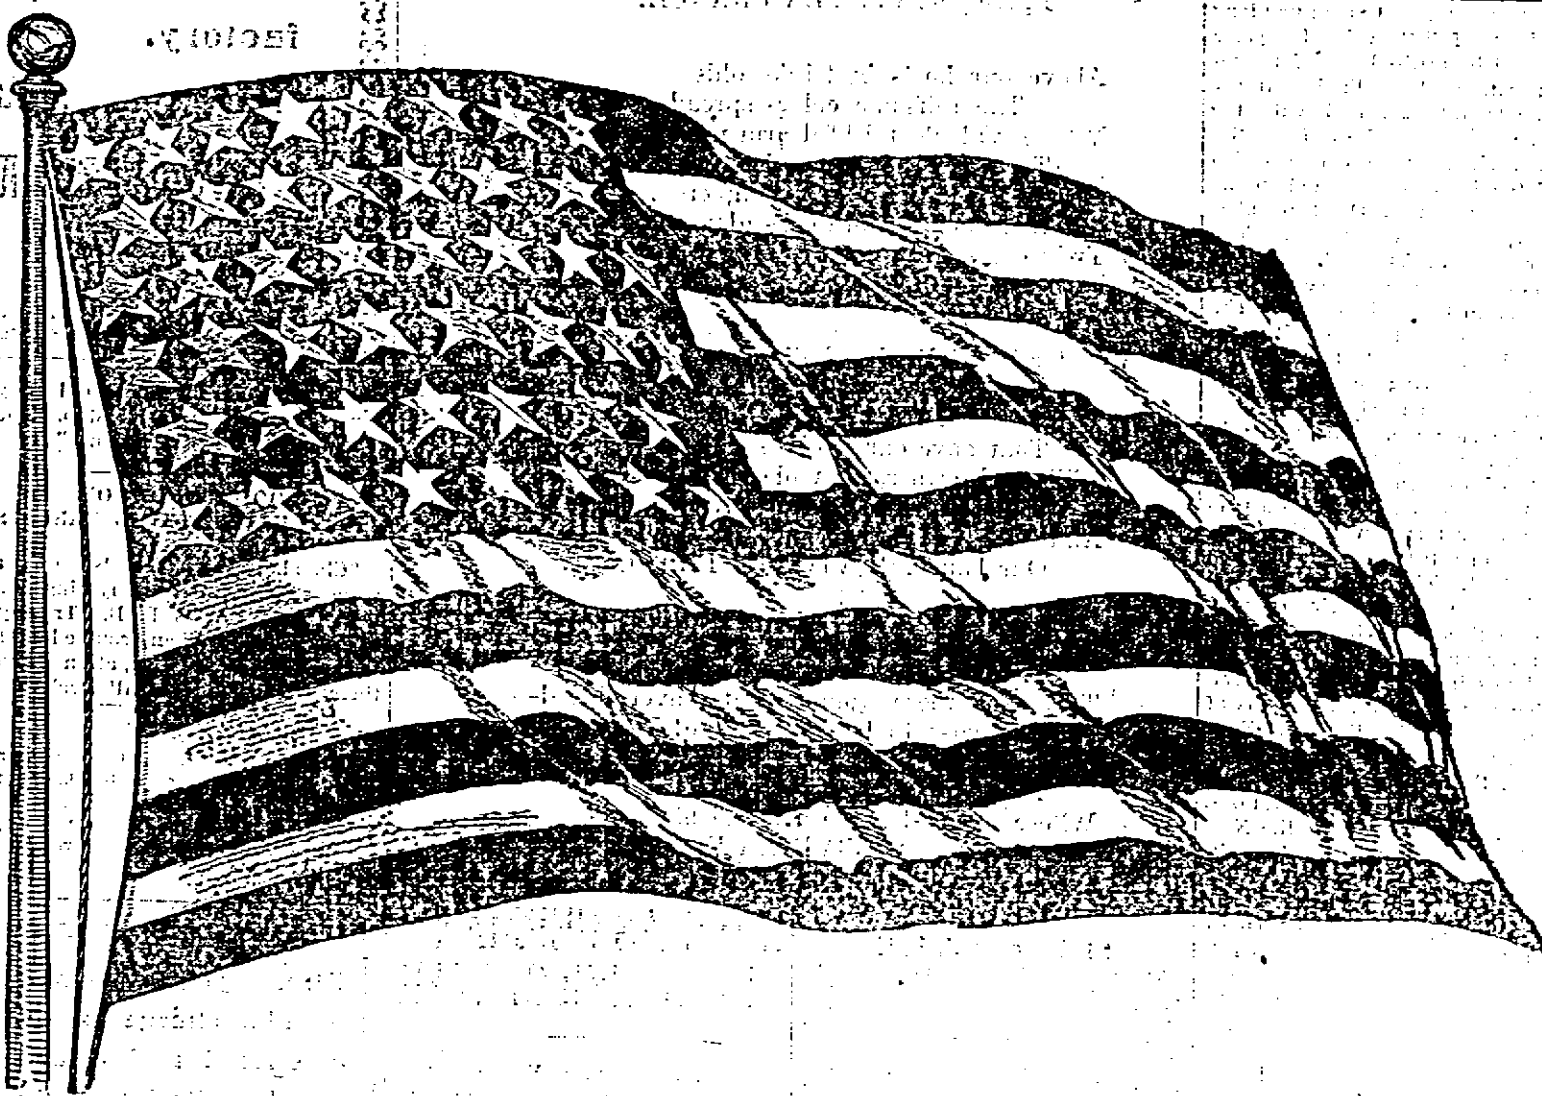

Dr. Garner was a member of the western district state exemption board and resigned from that body to enlist in the service.

In tendering his resignation to Governor Philipp Dr. Garner said, "I feel that I can be of more service to my country in the army than as a member of this board."

Dr. Garner desires that all accounts due him in this city be settled at once.

ENTERS TRAINING

Miss Dorothy Brown of this city has gone to Poughkeepsie, New York, where she will enter the training school for nurses that has been established at Vassar college for women. Following her completion of this course, Miss Brown will enter a military hospital for a year's training.

VICTORY

Since first our sires stood beside the stream,
And fired the shot that echoed 'round the world,
Has come to pass the epoch of their dream
When to the April breeze their flag unfurled.

Today, where floats the Stars and Stripes, we deem
Each star defiance at the tyrant hurled;
Each stripe a bar 'gainst despots, too, would seem
To interpose for human rights imperiled.

Today, in foreign lands, the flag is flung
Against a crimson sky across the sea,
Where battle's bane from out the land has wrung
Its dreadful toll. It promises to free
Each nation, and to number each among
All peoples in a worldwide liberty.

—HARLOWE R. HOYT.

CELEBRATE 4TH IN RHINELANDER

Driving Club Arranges Big Program For Nation's Birthday

Spend the nation's birthday in Rhinelander!

One of the biggest celebrations ever attempted in northern Wisconsin will be held in this city on July 4th under the auspices of the Rhinelander Driving Club. All that is necessary to insure the complete success of the day is a smile from the weather man. With good weather there is no question but that July 4th, 1918, will go down as one of the greatest gala days in the history of this city.

Everybody in the county is invited to come to Rhinelander and enjoy the occasion. All loyal citizens are urged to stay in town and boost the celebration.

The program will open with the Perkins-Abbrecht wrestling match in the Armory at 10 o'clock a. m. This promises to be one of the most interesting exhibitions of skill and strength ever held here and will prove a strong drawing card.

In the afternoon there will be a splendid race program at the fair grounds. Many fast horses from this part of Wisconsin will participate in the various track events, including several Antigo steppers. The sum of $600 in purses goes to winners. Antigo horsemen are coming here with the intention of taking home a slice of this money and have made their brags that they will show the local fans what real horse flesh is.

The entire program follows:
Two big races between Rhinelander and outside horses: 2:25 Pace, Purse $300.
Free For All, Purse $400.

Running Race, one-half mile.
Shetland Pony Race, one-half mile.

Boys' foot race, 100 yards, and many other exciting exhibitions of speed.

Grand display of Daylight Fireworks. The Rhinelander City Band of 30 pieces will furnish music.

Admission to driving park 50 cents. Children 25 cents and children under 12 years will be admitted free. There will be no charge for the grand stand.

In the evening the celebration will be brought to a happy close with a free for all dance in the Armory.

What Are You Doing To Help Win The War?

WISCONSIN INDIANS BACK UP NATION IN PRESENT WAR

(By Fred L. Holmes in Capital Times)

The Wisconsin Indians are playing an important part in the present war against Germany. They have bought Liberty Bonds and their proportion of enlistments is high. At least two of Wisconsin's Indians have already given up their lives for the nation.

In a recent statement Cato Sells, the commissioner of Indian affairs, declares that during the war the Indians have increased their soil production by an average of 50 per cent over the anti-war yield. Taking United States as a whole 5,000 Indians are in training camps, and a large proportion in active service on land or sea, of these 75 per cent are volunteers, many of them hold commissions and many are non-commissioned. The Indians in the United States gave to the first and second issue of Liberty Bonds nearly $10,000,000.

Less than 100 years ago, the settlers of Wisconsin were anxious to have the titles of the Indian lands of Wisconsin rapidly extinguished and upwards of twenty important treaties were made between the years 1801 and 1854, to accomplish this result. These Indian treaties were unique. When it was proposed to make a treaty commissioners were appointed by the United States government to conduct and conclude the negotiations up to the point of submitting their work to the United States Senate. The places where the treaty was to take place was designated, messengers were dispatched far and wide to invite the Indians from whom it was contemplated to purchase the lands.

The first treaty made by the government affecting the territory now constituting the state of Wisconsin was on November 3, 1804 with the Sac and Fox nation at St. Louis, who entered into a treaty relinquishing their claims to lands between the Wisconsin and Mississippi river in Southwestern Wisconsin, including much of the territory of Grant, and Lafayette counties to day.

But other Indians still claimed title to these lands. It was not uncommon for more than one tribe to claim certain lands as belonging to both. Because of this condition it became necessary for the United States government to make new treaties for this same land on August 21, 1816 with the Chippewa, Ottawa and Potawatomi. This section laid entirely within the Fox and the Sac session of 1804. By a treaty on July 20, 1823, all the lands covered by the first Sac and Fox territory of 1814 included. This treaty was known as the lead mine sessions. In 1833, the Chippewa, Ottawa and Potawatomi, Indians were induced to accept a permanent home on the Mississippi river.

By order of the war department the lead mine settlers were protected in 1822 by the United States troops. The Winnebago Indians were bitterly opposed to white occupation. This opposition arose in 1827 in an uprising with the Winnebago Indians. The last stand against these sessions was made by Black Hawk in 1832, where annihilation of the band of Indians rapidly led to extinguishment of Indian claims. General Henry Dodge, from his earliest connection with affairs in the history of Wisconsin advised the extinguishing of Indian titles and the removal of the tribes to the west. Through his efforts a treaty was made at Washington, D. C. on November 1, 1837, whereby the Winnebago Indians ceded to the United States all their land east of the Mississippi river. It was in the same year that the government started to extinguish the Indian tribes in northern Wisconsin. The tracts claimed by the Chippewa and Sioux had long since been of little value for game and could be utilized only for lumber operations. Accordingly a treaty was made July 29, 1837 with the Chippewa Indian, of the Lake Superior region, whereby they ceded all of the land now located in the northwest counties. On September 29, 1837, the Sioux Indians made a similar session. The Menomonees had persisted and in 1831 ceded their land over to the United States. The Winnebagoes and Potawatomes, who had early ceded their lands, were now making encroachments on Menomonee's territory.

"So the Menomonee tribe," said G. M. Shattuck in a thesis on Indian Cessions, "in order to secure protection and benefits ceded a portion of their territory to the United States in a treaty at Washington, Feb. 8, 1831. The bulk of this cession comprised all their country on the southeast of Winnebago Lake, Fox river and Green Bay and all the islands in Fox river and Green Bay. There were also three tracts of land designated for the New York Indians, the Stockbridges and Munsees and the Brothertowns, which are discusses under reservations. There was exception from the New York Indian reserve a small military reservation lying south of Duck Creek on Green Bay which had been established by Executive Order March 2, 1829. This treaty was ratified by the Senate June 25, 1832 but the new provisions in regard to the reserves for New York Indians the Menomonees refused to accept and another treaty was made and ratified by October 27, 1832 in which the reserve for the New York Indians, was granted, comprising 500,000 acres southwest of the intended reserve of 1831. A portion of this was retroceded to the United States and added to the public domain by action of the Oneidas in the treaties of January 15th and Feb. 3, 1838.

"The Menomonee lands were now cut down to a tract lying between the Wisconsin, Wolf and Fox Rivers. It was however, a district much desired for settlement and as the tribe was very poor a treaty was obtained Oct. 18, 1848, whereby they agreed to cede, sell, and relinquish to the United States all their lands in Wisconsin wherever situated for which they were to receive a large money consideration, and a reservation in Minnesota."

When concluding a treaty with the various tribes for a purchase of land the United States usually made it the articles of the treaty arrangement for the disposition of the tribe. If a tribe were given a permanent home west of the Mississippi and were removed immediately to such reserves, the removal was likely to be permanent and of some satisfaction to the Indians. But if the Indians were promised a new home by the treaty and then granted for a definite period the privilege of hunting and fishing on the ceded lands, the government had trouble with future removals. The Indians stayed in their old haunts and brooded over the sale of the home of their fathers. They lived in plenty on their annuities for the first few years after signing the treaty and when the government wished to put into effect the desired removal, many eluded the officers in charge and those transferred to the new reserves were all ways dissatisfied.

VIVE LA FRANCE

By Oliver Wendell Holmes

The land of sunshine and of song!
Her name your hearts divine;
To her the banquet's vows belong
Whose breasts have poured its wine;
Our trusty friend, our true ally
Through varied chance and chance;
So, fill your goblets high,
I give you, VIVE LA FRANCE!

Above our hosts in triple folds
The selfsame colors spread,
Where Valor's faithful arm upholds
The blue, the white, the red;
Alike each nation's glittering crest
Reflects the morning's glance,
Twin eagles, soaring east and west:
Once more, then, VIVE LA FRANCE!

Sister in trial! who shall count
Thy generous friendship's claim,
Whose blood ran mingling in the fount
That gave our land its name,
'Till Yorktown saw in blended line
Our conquering arms advance,
And Victory's double garlands twine
Our banners! VIVE LA FRANCE!

O land of heroes! in our need
One gift from heaven we crave
To stanch these wounds that bravely bleed—
The wise to lead the brave!
Call back one captain of the past
From glory's marble trace,
Whose name shall be a bugle blast
To rouse us! VIVE LA FRANCE!

OUR REPORTER SAYS WOT GITS HIS GOAT IS THAT THE FELLER WHO NEVER GIVES HIM ANY NEWS IS ALWAYS HOLLERIN' ABOUT THEY BEIN' NO NEWS IN THE PAPER!

HELD AS GERMAN PRISONER OF WAR

Irving Zolinsky, a Wausau boy whose parents formerly resided in Rhinelander, is a prisoner of war in Germany. The following is taken from the Merrill Daily Herald of recent date:

Irving Zolinsky, a native of Wausau, is a war prisoner in Germany, at Duellman, not over fifteen miles from the girlhood home of his mother, who will be remembered by many as Miss Regina Berney (her maiden name), a cousin of Nathan and Benjamin Heinemann, of Wausau, and who made her home with the Heinemann family.

Irving Zolinsky is a son of Louis Zolinsky who, years ago, had charge of the clothing department for Heine man Brothers before they sold the business to the Livingstons. About twenty years ago Mr. Zolinsky, Sr., left Wausau and established a store at Rhinelander. At present Mrs. Zolinsky is living in Milwaukee.

Young Zolinsky was of an adventurous nature. He enlisted in the U. S. navy and served his full time, receiving an honorable discharge. Later he joined the regular army and was captured somewhere on the fighting front.

In a letter to his mother he says: "I think that I am going to Karlsruhe, so I will at least have some beautiful scenery to look at. With this moving about I am becoming quite a tourist. But instead of guides we have guards to accompany us. If you have the right guard he will explain all the beautiful spots you pass, and his idea of the war."

"The farming season is about to begin, so I might be fortunate in getting a position as interpreter on one. The Germans gave us a picture show last night. It was quite good (anything for a change)."

"Well, it is getting on toward 12 o'clock so I must cook some dinner. Today I am having tinned Australia rabbit (cat?), some Danish bread, 'Ceylon' tea, 'Edison' beans and 'English' grease to put on my bread—quite an international menu. On Sundays we do eat—when we are lucky. But, oh my! You do get tired of soup. Oh for a steak and onions! I bet when I land in New York I shall order $75 worth of steak and onions."

"Has Fred joined yet? (Fred is one of the prisoners' brothers who is serving for the last year at the Milwaukee radio station.) Would it be possible to get a little money to me by international money order?"

The letter comes from Duellman, Germany, and is dated Feb. 21, 1918.

In a letter dated April 11, sent from Reulberg, Baden, he writes, "I am working on a farm, am a Bauer now, and get along fine with the old 'bos'. Who would have thought I should have been driving two steers ploughing up a potato field?"

"Today is Sunday and I am having a rest after my strenuous week. I said strenuous, for I tried to milk a cow yesterday. After trying for

A large gathering assembled at the hall Saturday evening and much merriment was enjoyed by the Minocqua orchestra and every one reported a grand time dancing until late. Hall was crowded from Minocqua and Woodruff.

JACKS NOT ONLY ONES

Lumberjacks are complaining of the high cost of beer and whiskey. There was a time when you bought a glass of suds for a nickel they would throw in a ham bone, a gob of salt mackerel and real wheat bread to boot. Those days are gone forever, boys.—Crandon Republican.

Why accuse the lumberjacks of doing all the hollering? We have heard several business and professional men make the same kick. Ask any barkeeper.

Improvement on Old Adage.

PRETTY WEDDING
HERE WEDNESDAY

The home of Mrs. Nettie Hamilton on South Pelham street, was the scene of a very pretty wedding, Wednesday morning, June twenty-sixth, at eight o'clock, when her daughter, Miss Jean Hamilton was united in marriage to Mr. Kay Charles Kennedy of Trenton, New Jersey.

Miss Alice Schliesman with Miss Una Reardon as accompanist on the piano, sang in her usual charming manner "My Heart, At Thy Dear Voice" from "Samson and Dalila." Following this the bridal couple took their places at the end of the room, which was banked with ferns and iris. Rev Grant Clark of Ladysmith read the impressive ring service so old yet always so new.

The bride wore a handsome champagne gown of gray with a corsage bouquet of sweet peas and corn flowers. Her going away gown was of gray also, which with a picture hat to match made a pleasing appearance. The bridal bouquet was thrown, and caught by Miss Una Reardon.

Ferns and daisies formed the decorations of the dining room; over the bride's table hung a bell of daisies and ferns caught to the table with streamers of moline fastened with bunches of daisies; small tables holding baskets of daisies carried out the decorative scheme of the room.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy left in an automobile, driven by Miss Reardon, for Satuit, where they took the train for Three Lakes where they will spend a few days at Laurelton Resort before leaving for Princeton, New Jersey, where they will reside.

The bride is a graduate of the Rhinelander high school and later was a student at Chicago University; for several years she has taught music in public schools and has had charge of the orchestra work as well. She is very popular in Rhinelander, where she has lived most of her life and her many friends wish her health and happiness in her new home. Mr. Kennedy has a responsible position with the Globe Rubber Company, who are furnishing hard tires for government trucks. He made a very favorable impression upon those who were fortunate enough to make his acquaintance while he was in the city.

The following guests were present: Miss Verna Squier, Miss Alice Schliesman, Miss Una Reardon, Miss Kathryn Seibel, Miss Margaret Shelton, Miss Olive M. Rogers, Mrs Lou Robbins Zabel, Mr. Kay, Mr. James D. Caldwell, Mr. Lloyd Taylor, Mr Bruce Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. C P Crosby, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. They can talk about their plays,
'Bout their movies and their dances,

'Bout the Galli-Curci craze—
Not a single one entrances me;
For I'm content, you bet,
With one luxury a day;
Smoking just one cigarette
In the dawn, ere reveille.

Back at home I never did
Puff before my morning meal—
Father would have put the lid
On it; and with anguished squeal
Mother would have thought me gone
Plumb—well, plumb to you-know where,

But it wasn't cold at dawn,
Damp and dismal over there.

Over here, though, mornings are Things to court the soothing weed
Lack of Makin's well may mar
All one's first call dressing speed.

With a fag stuck in your face
You can hustle with the best,
Puff, and struggle with each face,
Get for breakfast chow a zest.

Cigarettes at break of day
Sweeter are than any others,
Driving clouds of night away,
Cutting fog that well nigh smothers;

Soft their perfume, mild their taste.
Who'll gainsay the joy they bring?
So—be careful not to waste
'Baccy—'tis a precious thing!

BREED HEADS STATE G. A. R.

Many Civil war veterans passed through Rhinelander last Friday on their way home from Ashland where they attended the state G. A. R. convention. The meeting lasted three days and was one of the most successful in the history of the Wisconsin G. A. R.

All future encampments will be held in Madison this decision being reached because of the decrease in the number of veterans and each year it becomes harder for the survivors to travel.

George D. Breed of Chilton was elected Department Commander. Robert Inglis of Bayfield was elected senior vice commander. W. K. Baldwin of Racine, junior vice commander. Dr. Baird of Madison, medical adviser. N. B. Hoel, of Grant county, chaplain, and W. H. Blyton of Sparta, trustee.

A resolution was passed renewing the pledge of devotion to the country and its flag and declaring that "We are going the limit in the great game of Liberty Bond and Thrift Stamps buying and Red Cross giving that the boys 'Over There' may have no lack of the best of equipment, get their pay on time, their dear home folks be provided for, and that billions be advanced to our allies who for three years fought our battles as uncomplainingly and heroically as they fought their own, before this country entered the mighty contest for right, justice and humanity."

PROCLAMATION

President Wilson, our Commander in Chief, has ordered every man, woman and child in this country, to enlist in the great army of production and saving here at home. June 28th is the last day to comply with this order. In compliance with this order, I request and urge every citizen of Oneida county, who would be considered loyal to his country, to pledge himself or herself to buy War Savings Stamps during the balance of the year 1918 to the limit of his or her power. Oneida county has responded freely and quickly to every call made thus far. Our own boys, dear to us all, are fighting our battles on the Western Front, ready and willing to make the supreme sacrifice, and for those brave boys you are asked merely to save. If you value the safety of those boys in the trenches, pledge yourselves to buy War Savings Stamps, and let the cry of "Over the Top" again be heard at the close of June 28th.

INDIANS RAISE BIGGER CROPS

Wisconsin Indians are proving their right to the title of "first Americans" by their work for war food production. Three reservations, the Odanah, the Red Cliff, and the Court d'Oreilles, have recently been visited by representatives of the agricultural extension service, who report that from 1 1/2 to 40 acres is being cultivated by each Indian farmer, a total increase of several hundred acres. Each reservation now has 100 or more farm families.

The principal crops are hay, oats and root crops. Rutabagas have been especially popular with the Indian farmers this year. In addition, the Indians are interested in raising horses, good cattle, hogs, and poultry, and are now giving attention to the sheep industry. Each reservation has hundreds of acres of wild pasture.

It is the observation of field workers of the College of Agriculture that the Indians are more interested than ever before in the farm courses offered, and that they are putting into practice the things they learn.

Farmers, Attention!

The Government Is Begging You to Raise

Wheat

Wheat is very scarce still, but in order that we may send more flour to our Allies most of the meatless days have been cut out, so we can eat meat instead of wheat. Some varieties of wheat do not do well in this climate, but a number of Oneida county farmers have successfully raised wheat year after year.

We plan to have our flour mill in operation before fall, so there will be a sure market here

This appeal is not merely to our stockholders, but to every patriotic land owner in Oneida county. We have arranged with MR. JUDAY to handle all orders for seed at the lowest price obtainable, and we hope to secure orders for a carload. Please place your orders at once.

PRaise FROM ROOSEVELT

"When the great war came, this university—and all Wisconsin—rose to the need in a way which will forever after make every graduate of it lift his head in pride when the university's name is mentioned," declared ex-President Theodore Roosevelt in an address at the University of Wisconsin.
"Like all other Americans interested in that kind of development of our social and industrial problems which can only come when the best brains of the university join themselves with those in practical life, I am particularly interested in the special field work that this university, more than any other university in the country, has covered. You have performed a big and a most useful life outside, I have been for 30 years

SHELDON DEFINES POSITION

G. M. Sheldon of Tomahawk, Wisconsin, has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for member of Congress, and has defined his position on the most important national questions as follows:
In this country today there is for every individual and for every political party but one supreme duty, and that is to win the war. I believe that a permanent and lasting peace depends upon a complete victory for the allied armies.
To win the war it is advisable to mobilize the entire effective man power and the whole industrial resources of the country. I favor an amendment to the conscription act so that it will include all available men between the ages of twenty one and fifty and I believe that the "work or fight" regulation should be extended to the limit.

SUCCESS OF WAR STAMP CAMPAIGN IS DOUBTFUL

Indications Point To Oneida County's First War Stamp Failure

Present figures would seem to indicate that Oneida county will fail for the first time in answering the country's call. The War Saving Stamp drive is falling short of the allotted quota in spite of the superhuman efforts put forth by the Council of Defense. Early in the week it appeared that the ruinous frost would deter the farmers but there seemed no reason why the city would not make good its reputation. However, the reverse is true, Mr. Forbes, chairman of the towns, is elated with their success and announces that the farmer despite his losses and hardships, will not fail the government and has pledged his share. Many towns, including Lynne, Piehl, Woodruff and Schoepke have gone far above their quota and the others have nearly reached theirs. Meetings will be held in all these towns Friday and speakers will attend. Many business men from Rhinelander will go out into these towns and spend the day assisting in the final work.

The city teams are determined to yet reach their goal and will give all their time to that end until the campaign closes. The first ward has nearly reached its goal and the others still have hope.

The main difficulty in the city seems to be with the man who, although able to pledge by some sacrifice, seems unwilling to make the sacrifice. Many say they will wait for the liberty bond issue expected late in the year.

The country needs their money or their pledge now. What would you say of the soldier fighting your battles for you if when the command came to meet the enemy, he sat still with the excuse that he preferred to wait until some other time.

The statement of Mr. E. O. Brown Mr. John Moen and others, that the War Saving Stamp is one of the best investments in the world with good interest, redeemable on short notice and maturing early, should bring a different result from the men with money. Many men have bought the maximum but more have not. They should. Judge C. F. Smith, city chairman, will get his teams ready to make one more appeal to those who can pledge more than they have already done and to reach those who want to "Let George do it."

According to County Chairman A. J. O'Melia, there is yet a chance of success but the verdict is in the hands of the people of Rhinelander. He said today: "All indications point to a splendid success in the towns. The men of money in the city can save the day and I sincerely hope they will. I cannot believe they will let the boys in France know we have failed them. I feel they will not accept the excuse of some that later they will answer the country's call but prefer to keep their money now. We must not fail them or they may be forced to fail us. We must sacrifice. I appeal to the loyalty, the pure Americanism and the devotion of the people to keep our record clean."

Mr. and Mrs. F. Skubal are the parents of a baby girl born Tuesday.

Mrs. Anthony O'Malley and Ræburn are home from a visit with her parents in Wausau.

Mrs. Charles Benson entertained a number of friends at her home Wednesday evening.

Mrs. George Nagle was here from Shawano this week visiting friends and attending to business affairs.

Meat Must Be Sold

Fresh meat is perishable. It must be sold within about two weeks for whatever it will bring.

A certain amount of beef is frozen for foreign shipment, but domestic markets demand fresh chilled, unfrozen beef.

Swift & Company cannot increase prices by withholding meat, because it will not keep fresh and salable for more than a few days after it reaches the market.

Swift & Company cannot tell at the time of purchasing cattle, what price fresh meat will bring when put on sale. If between purchase and sale, market conditions change, the price of meat must also change.

The Food Administration limits our profit to 9 per cent on capital invested in the meat departments. This is about 2 cents per dollar of sales. No profit is guaranteed, and the risk of loss is not eliminated.

As a matter of fact, meat is often sold at a loss because of the need of selling it before it spoils.

Swift & Company, U.S.A.

ident Wilson's recommendation for a revision of the Revenue laws, and I believe that there should be absorbed by taxation for war purposes as large a proportion of excess profits as is taken by our ally Great Britain.

I favor the suspension of all non essential industries during the war in order that our entire energies may be devoted to war purposes. I refer by "non-essential" industries particularly to the liquor traffic and would vote, if elected to congress, to forbid the use of food-stuffs for the manufacture of intoxicants during the war.

I favor giving to women the right to vote by federal enactment.

I believe that a commission should be appointed at once to formulate and recommend to Congress an after the war industrial program.

REGARDING A PAPER

The province of a newspaper is to chronicle the news. Other considerations being equal it will lay greatest stress on what is most interesting to its readers. Not every thing that happens is news. If the Jones family retires for the night and sleeps soundly and awakes refreshed in the morning, there is nothing in all that for the newspaper; but there is an "item" if burglars break in or if the place catches fire and the family are rescued from an upper window in their night clothes. Comper's characterization of the newspaper as "a way of busy life" is very well, but ignores the extent to which the newspaper is obliged to lay stress on the unusual. It is not because editors lack taste, but because readers demand information regarding the unusual that newspapers give less space in their columns to mild sermons of worthy bishops than to dynamic discourses by Billy Sunday. The news papers do not ignore what is good in the world because it is good, but because it is matter of course. When what is good has the news quality it gets into the newspapers on the front page, vide reports of the benevolent work of the Red Cross. The hero who saves a life at the risk of his own is reported in newspapers as conspicuously as the scamp who forges a check or pretends to be dead for the sake of collecting his life insurance. The newspapers that find the most favor with the public are those that show the greatest enterprise and intelligence in collecting and presenting the news.—Evening Wisconsin.

ED. ROTHWELL NEAR BORDEAUX

Near Bordeaux, France.
June 3, 1918

My Dear Mother:—
Monday again; another week gone and we are still here, the only news of importance this week is that we have received permission to tell our location, so if you will look at the top of this letter it will show you just about where I am.

I am about 18 miles up the river from Bordeaux, at a place called Libourne, and it is at Bordeaux where I met Co. L when they were here and where Moose Anderson is located now. You will note by the map that we are down in the southern part of France and the last week has felt like it for we sure have been warm, and today it is hot, absolutely hot, but we will live thru it I guess.

Yesterday was first communion Sunday here and it was a day that I am not liable to forget for a while. I went to High Mass and did not see any of the communicants at church in the morning, but heard that there was going to be a procession in the afternoon, and I went around there at 4:00. It was at the big cathedral that I have told you about, the cathedral Joanne d'Arc, and in the afternoon they had an altar built in the big arch of the doorway, then for a block around the church the whole street was covered with palms and over the palms they scattered rose petals. I saw old women with gonnysacks filled with rose petals going along scattering them on the streets. The steps of the out door altar were covered about six inches deep with flowers and all the walls of the building along the street were covered with white cloth so it looked like a big room.

I am enclosing the results of one film, the first one is a picture of some of the boys who spent one Sunday morning fishing and their big catch. Just behind them you can see the basin where we wash our clothes when we go broke and can't hire a wash woman. Also to one side you can see our dining room, it has only one window but that one goes clear around the building. The next one is a picture of the Madame where I had dinner that Sunday with her. The next one is just three of the fellows on Fronsac hill where the old Chateau Fronsac used to be. The last one is a picture of Libourne, where we are, taken from the top of Fronsac hill. After that there is a picture of a bunch of girls from one of the orphans' home out for a walk on Sunday afternoon with one of the teachers or Sisters with them. The last one is a picture of yours truly, taken in the arch of the cathedral I mentioned before. The altar was built right where I am standing in the picture.

Well, mother dear, there is not much more to say, we are well, intend to remain so, and have no news worth mentioning. We work all day and at night we try to talk French, and of the two I would rather work.

Your loving son,
E. ROTHWELL.

LAWRENCE-PAZOUR

Miss Anna Lawrence and Emil Pazour were united in marriage Monday morning at the residence of Father C. J. Weber of St. Joseph's Catholic church. They were attended by Miss Emma Lawrence of Ashland and Irvin Kuehlthau of Superior. The bride wore a gown of white georgette crepe and taffeta and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Boyle, 718 Clough avenue, for thirty guests. The out of town guests were Mrs. Mary Pazour of Milwaukee, Miss Christie Lawrence of Rhinelander, and Miss Emma Lawrence of Ashland. Mr. and Mrs. Pazour will reside in Superior.—Superior Telegram.

Comfort kits and sweaters were presented to them by the Red Cross.

Our Service

AND WHAT IT MEANS TO YOU

WE HAVE A JOINT INTEREST
IN THIS COMMUNITY

And we wish to join with you in every way to promote the community's interests

In a sense, this community is like a farm—it pays according to the way in which it is treated.

The successful farmer co-operates with his farm.

Knowing that certain soil elements are necessary to healthy crop growth, he sees to it that these elements are maintained.

The same principle holds good in community development.

Our community is composed of two closely-related elements—town and country.

They are both essential to healthy community growth. Neglect or mistreatment of either of them by the other affects both—it injures the whole community. Both elements must be maintained.

Accomplishing this is simply a matter of sincere co-operation among all of us in this community.

Our idea of our own part to play for community good in a business is—

To sell only such implements as have the quality to give high-grade results in the field.

To consider good performance by our implements as a part of our obligation.

To sell every implement at a fair price.

To practice the square deal towards each and every customer.

On this basis we invite the co-operation of every farmer in this community.

FATHER FOLLOWS SON IN DEATH

The angel of death took heavy toll of the Stafford family here this week, calling father and son within twenty-four hours. Michael Stafford passed away at the age of 85 years, Tuesday afternoon. He had been in feeble health for some time and intense grief over the death of his son, James Stafford, who passed away a few hours before, hastened the end. He was one of this city's oldest residents.

James Stafford's death occurred in St. Mary's hospital after a several weeks illness. He was 51 years of age and leaves a family.

The funerals of Michael and James Stafford will be held at the same time Friday from St. Mary's church. Rev. Father Didier will conduct the services.

Deepest sympathy of the community is extended to the loved ones who are left to mourn this double loss.

LIGHTNING HITS CHURCH STEEPLE

During the storm early Wednesday evening lightning struck the steeple of the Norwegian Lutheran church. No fire resulted although the steeple was damaged to a considerable extent.

Rev. J. A. Snaatemo, pastor of the church, estimates the loss at between $300 and $500. Work of repairing the structure will be started at once.

ARE MARRIED

The marriage of Miss Marian J. Fremstad and Harold Christensen of this city took place Monday. The bride is the daughter of John Fremstad and is popular among her many friends. The groom is said to be an excellent young man.

The young couple will reside in Rhinelander. Congratulations are in order.

Alderman Frank Pecor of the third ward came down from Winagar to day to attend council meeting.

URBANK SELLS TO J. J. NICK

Adolph Urbank has disposed of his interests in the Urbank & Nick furniture store to his partner, J. J. Nick Jr., who will hereafter conduct the business. Mr. Urbank, who is in the United States army signal corps, was here this week on a furlough and arranged the dissolution. His services in the army prevented him from devoting attention to the business and for this reason he was forced to retire.

To the New North Mr. Urbank stated that if he passes thru war without mishap, he intends to return to Rhinelander and open a new furniture and undertaking establishment. He is stationed in Fort Leavenworth, Kas., and expects to be ordered overseas soon.

FLOUR ORDER HITS RESORTS

Many of the summer resort hotels of Upper Wisconsin will be affected by the recent order of the food Administration ordering the putting into effect in such hotels the fifty-fifty flour order which requires that an equal amount of substitutes be used with all wheat flour.

This order will include all hotels the business of which is seasonal and which do not hold regular baker's licenses. The issuing of licenses to such hotels will also be discontinued in the future.

"So you have been to the mysterious Orient," said the impressionable young woman, "that vast region athrob with a strange life, gray with the dust of centuries, and brooded over by the spirit of the past?" NEW RULES FOR SUGAR SAVING

New and drastic sugar regulations were issued Monday by Magnus Swenson, federal food administrator for Wisconsin, which shows that the greatest care must be taken in the conservation of sugar.

Under new rules all manufacturers using sugar are compelled to procure a certificate from the state food administration before they will be permitted to purchase any sugar.

Tobacco manufacturers are added to Class A and the supply of sugar is cut from 80 to 50 per cent of the normal requirement. Ice cream manufacturers are cut from 100 to 75 per cent of their normal requirement.

Class B, which includes all the essentials, remains at 100 per cent. Class C, which includes all public eating houses, hotels, restaurants, cafes, etc., must have certificates to purchase sugar, and will be allowed only three pounds for every ninety meals served.

Class D includes all bakers. They will be allowed 70 per cent of the sugar they purchased in June or 1-3 of 70 per cent of the sugar purchased in July, August and September, 1917.

Class E includes all retailers. They will be permitted to have only three pounds per person a month for customers the allotment being based on purchases made during April, May and June.

Personal notification cannot be given to all the above but newspaper notices will be considered official notification to them from the food administrator. All of the above mentioned classes must apply to their county food administrator immediately for sugar certificates, and the responsibility for the sugar supply of each community will rest on the manner in which dealers obey the regulations.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Hart and Melville, Misses Kopschke and Asmundson, and Barney Isackson motored to one of the resorts near Eagle River Sunday and spent the day with friends.

JULY CALL IS FOR 19,200 MEN

Next Month's Draft May Take
Nearly All Class 1 Men
In State

Wisconsin will furnish 19,200 men for the National army during the month of July.

Maj. E. A. Fitzpatrick, head of the draft administration, made this announcement Saturday. The number includes the call of 6,000 which was announced on Friday.

The arrangements have not yet been completed, tentative plans provide for the following days on which the calls are effective, with the camps to which the men are to be sent:

Time.	No.	Camp
July 5,	3,600	Columbus Barracks, O.
July 13,	3,600	Columbus Barracks, O.
July 22,	5,200	Camp Taylor, Ky.
July 29,	8,000	Camp Grant, Ill.
Total,	19,200.

The government also asks that in addition, the state of Wisconsin will furnish during the month of July, 253 skilled mechanics to be sent to such camps as the government will designate. These mechanics must have at least a grammar school education.

The entire July draft calls, together with the call for mechanics were received by Gov. E. L. Philipp, Saturday direct from Adj.-Gen. Crowder.

The Class A1 men from fifty of the 104 local draft boards of Wisconsin will be exhausted in supplying the men called for the month of July, according to Maj. Fitzpatrick.

When the orders for the July contingents were received at the office of the adjutant general, there were a little over 27,000 Class A1 men in the state, but when the deductions for July are made it will leave less than 9,000.

Under the regulations for the draft all Class A1 men from the state will have to be inducted into service before any can be called from another class and as several boards have practically exhausted their supply of Class A1 men, the new draft will draw heavily from the other boards.

Enlistments in the navy are not credited in the draft and Wisconsin has sent thousands of volunteers into the navy within the last few months. Many of these have enlisted since the last figures were reported by the local boards to the adjutant general, so it is impossible to tell exactly how each board or county will stand until after the July quotas have been filled.

Evening service at 8 o'clock. Subject: "Constraining Influence" Prayer meeting on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. You are cordially invited to attend these services.

Our invitation to all who are weary and need rest—To all who are friendless and want friendship—To all who are homeless and want sheltering love—To all who pray and to all who do not, but ought—To all who sin and need a savior and to whoever will. This church opens wide the door and makes free a place and in the name of Jesus, the Lord says welcome. Rev. William Wilson, Pastor.

J27 Stamp Perforation.

The perforation of stamps was first commenced in England in 1853, for receipt and draft stamps, and for postage stamps in 1854. Prior to that period stamps were separated by means of scissors or a knife or similar means and in some cases those who required many resorted to the use of a roulette, a kind of cogwheel furnished with small cutters, making a series of cuts between the stamps.

SPORTSMEN MEET HERE JULY 13

Conservation Commission Will Be Here To Discuss Deer
Law Changes

The meeting called by the Wisconsin Conservation Commission to be held at the court house in Rhineland on July 13, at 8:00 o'clock, should call out every sportsman in Oneida county. It is understood the Conservation Commission intend discussing not only the deer law but will go over the game situation in Wisconsin and such proposed amendments to the present game laws as seem advisable after the various conferences with the sportsmen throughout the state.

This is the first opportunity ever afforded the Conservation Commission and the sportsmen of having a heart to heart talk upon these questions which are so generally misunderstood and much good will certainly result if the sportsmen will turn out and meet with the commission in a friendly discussion of these subjects. The commission is in a position to give the sportsmen some valuable information that will be of interest to all who are interested in the state's resources of fish and game and the sportsmen should be able to enlighten the commission upon these subjects as viewed by the sportsmen.

The commission is holding the same sort of hearings in the thirty-one counties of the state that have an open season for hunting deer, which will undoubtedly result in great benefit in stimulating the sentiment for the proper conservation of these resources.

Facts About Prolific Fish.

The cod is estimated to yield 4,000,000 eggs each season. As many as eight, nine, and even nine and a half million eggs have been found in the roe of a single cod. An eel was caught in Scotland some years ago which was 32 inches long and weighed about two pounds. The ovary was about 12 inches long as it lay in the fish, but when opened out it was nearly 30 inches in length, and it was calculated that this contained upward of 10,000,000 eggs, rivaling, if not surpassing, the cod in this respect.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

LITTLE PRAIRIE DOGS.

"The prairie dogs," said Daddy, "are very, very small. They look like tiny woodchucks, and they are cousins of the woodchuck family."

"They had been asleep all winter, but now that the warmer days were coming, they wanted to get up. All the baby prairie dogs arrived in the spring, and they wanted to have their homes in readiness to welcome the little ones."

"But one day one of the prairie dogs was missing from his home. Young Master Prairie was the one who was missing. They searched high and low for him, but never a sign of him could they find."

"They missed him sadly, and they felt they knew that harm had come to him. Master Prairie would never have stayed away from home on his own account."

"And to be sure, a coyote had captured him."

"Let me go!" Master Prairie had screamed, but the coyote paid no attention.

"Let me go," Master Prairie begged as the cruel teeth grabbed his little body.

"He barked and then he cried: 'Have pity, coyote, have pity! My home is so nice. My family loves me so.'"

"But the coyote said viciously, 'I love you, too. I love you so much I am going to eat you up.'"

"Oh, please don't eat me up," said Master Prairie. "I've just awakened

It Was a Sad Story, But They Heard It Through.

for the year. The young prairie dogs will soon be coming. Oh, we're going to have such a glorious spring."

"Don't hurt me. I never did you any harm. I never did anyone any harm. I laugh and I never get blue and discouraged, like my cousins, the woodchucks."

"I'll not miss a treat like this," the coyote said.

"And despite the pleadings of the little prairie dog, the coyote thought of the delicious meal he would have, and Master Prairie Dog's cheerful little life was over."

"After he had been missing from the home of the prairie dogs they were very, very careful not to wander away where there might be any chance of danger."

"Grandmother Prairie Dog told them the story of the farmer who had hated the prairie dogs for making so many, many holes."

"It was a sad story, but they heard it through, so they would take pains to make their holes, as far as possible, away from farms."

"This farmer," Grandmother Prairie told them, "was so angry because so many holes were made in his grounds that he vowed he would get rid of the prairie dogs."

"Now, you know quite well," said Grandmother Prairie, "that we never hurt anyone. We're happy and jolly and gay. We love each other and our neighbors. The only thing that we do that annoys the farmer is that we make so many holes."

"But how are we to help doing that?" asked the little prairie dogs.

"We must make them away from where we think we can be harmed," said Grandmother Prairie.

"This farmer that I'm telling you about, put poisoned grain and wheat into our holes."

"Of course, we ate it, at least most of us did, for we thought it was thoughtful of him, and we barked our thanks delightedly. We also wagged our little tails."

"But the farmer hadn't stayed to hear our thanks. He had another purpose in his mind. This we soon found out."

"I had had a very good meal only a short time before this, and wasn't in the least scrap hungry. So I didn't eat any of the poisoned food."

"That is why I am alive to-day. But many of us did, and were poisoned. So we've got to be careful. And they all promised they would be."

"Soon they forgot about these sad stories and barked and laughed and played. How happy they were! For they are never sad long, and their little lives are jolly ones indeed."

"And soon the best part of the spring followed—the arrival of all the baby prairie dogs!"

Be Careful.

"It's always dangerous to jump at conclusions," said the careful man. "You're liable to make yourself ridiculous, to say the least."

"That's right," replied the other. "I jumped at the conclusion of a ferry boat once and missed it!"
